Instructions

Objective: Individually create a detailed design treatment for an original board game, covering the concept, gameplay mechanics, visual style, target audience, and inclusivity features. This foundational work will lead to further development phases.

1. Work on the below tasks (recommended to do in the order provided). 2, After you have the core concepts/sketches seek external feedback from 3 different people, preferably people from your target audience
2. Once all items are filled out, ensure this worksheet is saved and explore the PDF
3. Upload the PDF to a branch called `DesignTreatment` on GitHub
4. Create a pull request to main, and complete the merge
5. Upload the same PDF to Canvas

Section #1: (2 pts.) Crafting The Game Treatment

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (0.29 pts.) - Possible Title(s) of the Game

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Propose fitting title(s) reflecting the game's essence
- Explanation of title(s) choices

Your Response:

Idea 1) Over 50

- The core idea is to get as close as 50 as possible without going over. Hence the name but the effect cards will make it harder and harder to do that.

Idea 2) House of Effects

- Since the house will play 1 effect card after every round this leads to the explanation of the title.

Task #2 (0.29 pts.) - Game Setting

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the setting

Your Response:

The setting of the game is a card table in a casino. I was thinking a similar setting as blackjack/poker and having a dealer at the front with other players around the dealer would make perfect sense. Also i was thinking a similar setting to Buckshot Roulette where its a table with each player facing inwards so 4 players each looking at someone else and its up close and personal.

Task #3 (0.29 pts.) - Game Characters

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the characters

Your Response:

The characters in my game are just players sitting around a casino table trying to beat each other and stay under 50. Each player has 2-3 effect cards they can use to mess with the table or target someone directly. The House acts as the dealer and plays an effect card after every round, which keeps the game unpredictable and forces everyone to adjust.

Task #4 (0.29 pts.) - Game Theme

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the theme

Your Response:

The theme of my game is essentially chaos gambling. It's similar to blackjack but with the house playing with peoples numbers through effect cards. I want it to feel tense and competitive, where you think you're in a good spot and then one card flips and suddenly the whole table changes or you are yelling at the other person for the card they played.

Task #5 (0.29 pts.) - Game Story

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Thoroughly describe the story

Your Response:

The story for the game is the player is trapped in an ever expanding debt from a loan shark. The only way out is to gamble against him directly and play your changes. The House still runs the effects each round, but the real tension comes from trying to outplay the loan shark and win your freedom.

Task #6 (0.29 pts.) - Objectives and Conflicts

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Describe the goals and challenges within the game

Your Response:

The goal of the game is to get as close to 50 as possible without going over and finish closer to 50 than the loan shark. Players have to decide when to hit and when to stand while dealing with the House playing an effect card after every round. The main challenge is managing risk, since totals can change at any time and one bad effect card can completely flip the game

Task #7 (0.29 pts.) - Game Mechanics

Progress: 100%

Details:

- List each mechanic with supporting details to clearly portray the mechanic

Your Response:

1. Hitting A player chooses to draw another card, increasesing their score but also increases the risk of going over 50.
2. Standing A player chooses to stop drawing cards however, they can no longer increase their score but are still affected by future House effect cards.
3. House Effect Card After every round where players draw, the House reveals one effect card. This card immediately changes the future of the game which forces players to adjust their strategy.
4. Player Effect Cards Each player starts with three effect cards. These can be used to affect the entire table or target a specific player. They add strategy because players must decide the best timing to use them. They can play these during their turn unless they stand.
5. Busting If a player's total goes over 50 at any time, they are out for the round.
6. Competitive Win Condition The winner is the player closest to 50 without going over once the round ends. This includes beating the loan shark, who is another player at the table.

Section #2: (1 pt.) Target Audience Analysis

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (1 pt.) - Identify and analyze the game's target audience

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Clearly identify the target audience
- Include analysis of demographics, interests, and gaming habits
- Justification of appeal to target audience

Your Response:

I would say the target audience would be people who like card games/ gambling with their friends also people who enjoy the risk and playing the person they are against.

In terms of gaming habits, the target audience likes to play party games, casual strategy games, or gambling-style games where luck and decision-making both matter. the target audience enjoy games that create tension and interaction between players rather than solo experiences.

The game appeals to this audience because it combines simple rules with crazy unpredictable outcomes. The House effects keep every round feeling different and the player effect cards add strategy. The gambling theme and loan shark storyline also add tension, which makes the experience feel more intense and competitive instead of just a basic card game.

Section #3: (1 pt.) Accessibility And Inclusivity Strategies

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (1 pt.) - Outline strategies to make your game accessible and inclusive

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Include considerations for diverse abilities
- Outline inclusivity strategies for a wide audience
- Discuss implementation of noted inclusivity strategies without compromising gameplay

Your Response:

My game takes into account diverse abilities by keeping the mechanics simple and easy to follow. The cards could use large numbers and clear symbolss so they are easy to read at a glance. Additionally, i can use color and different visuals to differentiate things for people who might need assistance. I can outline the rules clearly to make sure a wider audience can understand the rules. Addtionally, I can dosing the cards in specific ways to promote easy reability and understandibliti. This desing the cards in sepcific ways to promote easy reability and understandibility. This would improve accessibility through the visuals and design rather than altering mechanics or gameplay.

Section #4: (2 pts.) Pitch Preparation

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (2 pts.) - Pitch

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Summarize concept and theme
- Compellingly highlight target audience and unique selling points
- Emphasize how the game stands out in the current market

Your Response:

Over 50 is a high-stakes twist on blackjack where players try to get as close to 50 as possible while surviving constant table-changing effects played by the House and other players at the table. The theme centers around gambling against a loan shark to escape debt and become free of their grasp. This game targets young adult players who enjoy strategic thinking and figiureing out what to do with the cards delt to them. What makes this game stand out is the uncontrolled chaos and player-controlled effect cards, creating a game that feels familiar like blackjack but much more unpredictable and interactive.

Section #5: (2 pts.) Visualizing The Game Concept

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (2 pts.) - Sketches/Storyboard

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Provide at least two sketches
- Sketches should accurately represent the game's concept and theme
- Sketches/storyboards should be coherent with game's style and theme the picture is how the board/setting would be.

Setting/Theme of Over 50

Section #6: (2 pts.) External Feedback

Progress: 100%

Task #1 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 1

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Tiffany – Girlfriend

Tiffany said the concept was really interesting and liked the loan shark story because it adds depth to the game and a story, but she mentioned that the effect cards could become unbalanced if too many strong ones are in the deck. Additionally, she said the game would feel better if there was a clear order for when effects are played and resolved. Thinking about her feedback, I would balance out the cards and give clearer instructions for when cards are played and when the effect happeneds.

Task #2 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 2

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Richie – Friend

Richie liked the competitive aspect and thought the player effect cards were the strongest mechanic because they add more of a strategic aspect instead of relying on pure luck. He suggested making sure the House effects don't overpower player decisions, or else it could feel random instead of skill-based. His feedback aligns with Tiffany's I will run through the game myself and with people to blaance out the house cards becuase I also agree that it could feel random and not skilled.

Task #3 (0.67 pts.) - Feedback 3

Progress: 100%

Details:

- Note the person's name and relation to you
- Summarize feedback focusing on concept, mechanics, and style
- Reflect on how the feedback will be used to refine the design

Your Response:

Ismail – Friend

He thought the idea of playing against a loan shark was cool but said the theme could be pushed more through visuals. He also mentioned that the goal of 50 is simple, which makes the game easy to understand. I would use his feedback by strengthening the theme in the design and artwork while keeping the mechanics simple and clear. Maybe thinking of a custom card design or visual could elevate the game.
